Our food in 3 words: generous, local, authentic

- A partner chef, not a caterer. A single point of contact, and cooking designed for the venue and the flow of your day.
- Proudly local sourcing. Producers from Beaujolais and the surrounding area, and fully seasonal: the menu follows what the land offers at the time of your visit.
- Homemade from start to finish. Terrines, pâtés en croûte: everything is prepared on site. Nothing outsourced, nothing frozen.
- Beaujolais on the plate, in the present tense. Regional classics revisited with a contemporary touch: the pleasure of familiar flavours, without the nostalgia.

Everything is laid out and set up for you, and you serve yourselves. You stay in control of your timing, and no one interrupts your conversations.

From a picnic in the vines to a working lunch or a food and wine pairing dinner, the format adapts to the time of day and the level of hospitality you would like.

Sample menu

Marinated meat and vegetable skewers

Savoury tart: cherry tomato tatin with thyme, rosemary and burrata

Terrine and pâté en croûte (pork, chicken, veal, almonds and fig)

Seasonal tatin (apples, quinces, apricots or peaches)

A family estate that opens its doors to businesses

In Beaujolais, seminars usually take place either in large châteaux or as a one-hour tour and tasting added to a programme built elsewhere. Here, the estate is yours for the day.

- The wines — Brouilly and Côte de Brouilly, 9 hectares, three generations of winegrowers. Volcanic blue-stone subsoil, agroecology, gentle winemaking.
- The venue — the southern slope of Mont Brouilly, a UNESCO Global Geopark, and a vaulted cellar carved into the rock. An on-site gîte sleeping 18 for two-day formats.
- The programme — planned with you in advance, with the estate hosting the key moments. In between, you are free to make yourselves at home.
- The activities — creative workshops, wine blending, cycling in the vineyards, dinner by our chef.

Optional: a dedicated project manager before and on the day, +€450 incl. VAT. She coordinates the transitions and manages suppliers and the unexpected, so you have nothing to worry about !*
